M. M. BURGESS IS JUDGE AND W. JAY ROBERTS ATTORNEY

Two Vacancies in Lawrence County Offices Filled
by Appointment.

Milton M. Burgess, of Wilbur, has been appointed Judge of the Lawrence County Court to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge M. B. Sparks.

The appointment was made last Saturday by Governor Morrow and Mr. Burgess took the oath of office Monday and entered upon the duties.

Monday was the regular term of the Lawrence County Court, and one of the first acts of the new Judge was to appoint a County Attorney to succeed Hon. G. W. Castle, who died on the 11th. Attorney W. Jay Roberts was given the appointment, and at once qualified and began service.

These two appointments hold until after the November election of next year, when successors will be elected. Judge Burgess was for many years chairman of the Republican committee of Lawrence county. His friends expect to see him make a good record in the chief office of Lawrence county because of their confidence in his capability, honesty and fairness.

Mr. Roberts also has been active in the affairs of his party and has won the rewards that have come to him. This position to which he has been appointed is a responsible one, with much work just ahead which he will take up at once.

$10,000 Damages Awarded Salyers in Circuit Court

Ten thousand dollars was awarded Tuesday Salyers by a jury in circuit court at Catlettsburg Saturday after a deliberation of not more than thirty minutes. The verdict was the result of a case in which Salyers sued the Clydeside Park Company for $10,000 damages, says the Ashland Independent.

Salyers alleges personal injury which he sustained as the result of an affray which occurred at Clydeside Park in May, 1919, and during which he was struck on the head by a park policeman, Jim Robinson of Catlettsburg.

Salyers is now residing near Paintsville but at the time of his injury lived at Catlettsburg. The trial at Catlettsburg occupied almost two days. The plaintiff's testimony brought out the fact that he in custody of a park policeman, Jim Robinson of Catlettsburg.

Letcher Jailer Pleads Guilty in Federal Court

When the case of William Reynolds, Jailer of Letcher county, charged with permitting prisoners to run at large and escape, was called for trial in Federal court at Richmond Tuesday, the jailer, through his attorney, Monroe Fields, Whitesburg, entered a plea of guilty. His attorney contended ignorance on the part of his client of the laws requirements and said that several prisoners had been allowed out of confinement as trustees who had disappeared.

Judge Cochran took the plea under advisement before imposing sentence.

FORD PURCHASES $1,250,000 MINE IN WEST VIRGINIA

Buys Desirable Coal Prop- erty at Davy, McDowell Coun- ty, on N. & W.

New York, Nov. 20.—In accordance with his program of acquiring for himself all raw materials required in the manufacture of automobiles, Henry Ford today has bought a coal mine for $1,250,000, according to reports carried here today by a news ticker company.

Mr. Ford's mine is known as the Dexter Colliery and is situated in the non-union fields at Davy, McDowell county, W. Va., on the line of the Norfolk & Western railroad. It is said to be a valuable field for the manufacture of coke which is used in steel making. Its monthly output is from 20,000 to 40,000 tons.

The automobile manufacturer paid $1,000,000 in cash to Dexter and Carpenter, former owners and will turn over the remaining $250,000 in a few weeks. Dexter and Carpenter retain the distribution rights for the fuel mined over and above Mr. Ford's needs.

FREE DELIVERY FOR LOUISA MAIL

The houses in Louisa have been numbered, preparatory to establishing free mail delivery. This is now a post office of the second class and the sales have reached the point where free delivery may be had.

The first step is the proper numbering of houses. When this is reported to the department and proper application made, authority will be granted to appoint carriers and put in the system.

This is another indication of Louisa's steady growth. Let everybody be awakened to the fact that Louisa can speed her growth by proper vision and effort on the part of her citizens.

U. D. C. to Finish Shift to Davis at Birthplace, Near Fairview, Ky.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 18.—Resolutions passed by the United Daughters of the Confederacy to raise sufficient funds to complete the monument to Jefferson Davis, President of the Southern Confederacy, at his birthplace near Fairview, Ky., were passed by the convention here today, following an appeal by Gen. William B. Haldeman of Louisville.

Plans call for the completion of the monument by June 3, 1923, the birthday of President Davis, on which day the monument will be dedicated. General Haldeman's appeal was based on the statement that further delay in completing the monument would constitute a reproach to the Southern people.

Delegates to the convention pledged more than $5,500 for the fund. The convention itself pledged $1,000 and it was announced that the Kentucky Jockey Club had appropriated $500. General Haldeman said $30,000 was necessary to complete the monument.

NEW OIL STRIKE MADE IN MARTIN COUNTY LAST WEEK

Well Came in With Symptoms of a Gusher, Causing Excitement.

Considerable excitement has been caused by an oil strike made in Martin county last Friday. The well flowed a few times and looked to be good for big production. First reports placed the capacity very high.

The latest information is that the oil is in the line and was found at a depth of about 125 feet. It is dark oil, typical of the line quality. A 250 barrel tank has been taken to the location.

The location of the well is on Beech fork of the Middle fork of Rockcastle, about two miles from the post office. The company holding the lease is composed of Huntington men, Don Miller and Tom Dimick being of the number. They are reported to have leases on 15,000 acres, including the Brooks & Simpson boundary.

It is very much to be hoped the strike will prove to be the opening of a big pool. It is probable that there will be deeper drilling there to explore the sands that produce more persistently than the line.

Martin County Woman Appeals Murder Case

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 21.—An appeal from the sentence given Mrs. Mary Hensley in the Martin county court on a charge of conspiring with Frank Chapman to kill her husband, James Hensley, was filed in the Court of Appeals. Chapman was tried on a charge of killing Hensley and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Chapman lived with Hensley and was assisting him in the operation of a moonshine still, according to the evidence offered at the trial. Hensley came home one night and threatened to kill his wife, it was testified, because she had declared that she was going to tell officers that the men were operating the still. Hensley drove her from the house, it was alleged, and Chapman followed. The men met in the mountains of Martin county and Chapman killed Hensley, according to the testimony at the trial.

N. & W. CONDUCTOR KILLED AT CRUM

Daniel Phillippi, aged 42, conductor on west bound extra N. & W. train No. 1422, a native of Rural Retreat, Va., was killed Saturday morning about eight forty-five o'clock at Crum, W. Va., when he was crushed between cars he was coupling.

There were no eye witnesses to the accident, but according to Sperry, conductor on extra No. 1481, and who happened upon the scene shortly after the fatal occurrence, and was the first to find the body, Mr. Phillippi probably met death while at work setting off a defective car on siding at Crum. The last conversation between the two cars to open the knuckle necessary to make a coupling and, misjudging the distance between himself and the front portion of the car moving toward him was caught between the ends of the rails, resulting from a crushed back and chest, was probably instantaneous.

Conductor Sperry, aboard the train following No. 1422, got out to investigate the cause of the delay when his train came up behind the other. Passing the engine and the mangled body lying between the cars.

The death of Mr. Phillippi was a great shock to his friends and officials of the railway, as he had always been an unusually careful employee.

Mr. Phillippi left Portsmouth, Ohio, on Thursday evening and had been on the train ever since.

He has been an employee of the N. & W. railway company for over twenty years and has been a resident of Portsmouth for seventeen years. He was born at Rural Retreat, Va., and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Phillippi. He has been a member of the Order of Railway Conductors since 1907. He was married twelve years ago at Wytheville, Va., to Miss Lela Copenhaver of Crockett, Va. The following children survive: Katherine, age ten; Grant, age seven, and Ulysses, aged five. They are now living with a sister of Mr. Phillippi at Rural Retreat, their mother having died three years ago.

The body was taken to Portsmouth and from there to Rural Retreat for burial.

The Portsmouth Times says: Just a few days ago W. C. Fischback and Daniel Phillippi, well known N. & W. freight conductors were enjoying one of their many friendly chats together and today their bodies rest among banks of flowers at adjoining homes on Mount street. Mr. Fischback was found dead in his room Friday morning, a victim of heart trouble.

The men were long time friends. Both were employed on the Williams division.

It is just another of those queer twists of fate that has called them both to the Great Beyond within a few hours of each other and it is a coincidence that their bodies should be at adjoining homes.

Lewis County Soldier Slain With Sheep Shears

Vanceburg, Ky., Nov. 20.—William (Pewter) Hackworth, 28 years old, veteran of the Rainbow Division, A. E. F., who was wounded five times in France and decorated for bravery, was killed; Ollie Jones was severely beaten and mangled; and Robert Jones, brother of Ollie, lost a part of his nose maiming in a free-for-all fight, said to have been over whiskey.

Hackworth died five minutes after he was stabbed in the heart with a pair of shears. Ollie Jones is alleged to have inflicted the fatal wound. Will Wright is alleged to have nearly bitten off the nose of Robert Jones.

According to evidence given to the coroner's jury, the older Jones and Sherwood Adams came to the house of Jack Burton, wanting to get whiskey. Burton said he had none. This started the quarrel.

Subsequent search revealed some whiskey in a pop bottle which is said to have been Hackworth's. All parties involved including Jack Burton and wife were lodged in jail until the examining trial.

BIG DEVELOPMENT OF ARMCO PLANT AT ASHLAND SURE

Plans for Financing Work- ed Out And Will be An- nounced Soon.

The American Rolling Mill Company, purchaser of the big plants at Ashland, will add a large finishing mill, giving employment to more than a thousand men. This plan was announced some time ago, but the financing had not been arranged until this week. The following news dispatch tells the story:

Middletown, Ohio, November 20.—Following a seven-hour session of the directors of the American Rolling Mill Company, held here this afternoon and evening, President George M. Verity made the announcement that plans for the refinancing of the Ashland plant of the corporation acquired last year had been agreed upon.

It had been understood in the financial district of Cincinnati that this was to have been done and the statement of President Verity was no surprise.

The following was the statement of President Verity issued to-night: "A plan covering the economic development of the new Ashland (Ky.) plant of the American Rolling Mill Company was agreed upon at the meeting of the Board of Directors held at Middletown today. The financial plan for the extension will be announced shortly. Just as soon as a statement can be prepared for the stockholders, the company's plants have been running at full capacity all summer, and a very satisfactory showing has been made."

MAY INVEST IN LOUISA PLANTS

Mr. Edward G. Schultz and W. T. Moran of Cincinnati, and Mr. Clark of Lexington, have been in Louisa this week inspecting the Lohco ice plant with a view to buying it.

Also, it is said they would be interested in installing a large electric light plant to serve all demands of the city and community. They looked over the situation thoroughly while here.

Mr. Schultz is treasurer of the R. K. LeBlonde Machine Tool Company, one of Cincinnati's largest plants. It is said these men represent large interests, able to finance any project they may decide to undertake. It is hoped they are interested in Louisa. Every reasonable encouragement should be given them to come in here.

A franchise for an electric system will be sold Saturday of this week. The city is ripe for a plant of this kind.

Mrs. Nannie A. Ford Dies in Portsmouth, O.

To this union were born five children, four of whom survive: T. A. of Catlettsburg, Ky.; Orma, of Philadelphia; Mida and Amanda, at home. The funeral was held at Catlettsburg, interment in the Ashland cemetery.

NORMAL BREACH SEEN IMPENDING

Deadlock Cannot be Broken Is Belief; Resignations Are Hinted.

(The Courier-Journal, Frankfort, Ky.)

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 20.—To all appearances, hopelessly deadlocked on the location of the Eastern Normal School and approaching show-down in regard to opening the Murray school, the State Normal School Commission met in Lexington next Saturday morning and has invited the State Board of Education to confer with it about the Murray school, the site for which the commission selected here last Saturday.

Whether the State Board will accept the invitation could not be learned today. State Superintendent George Colvin has not communicated his associates about it. Attorney General Charles L. Dawson is out of the city and Secretary of State Fred A. Vaughan is sick.

Forty-one ballots have been taken on the site for the Eastern Normal School without a town receiving a majority and at the last two sessions the balloting settled down to a four-and-four tie between Morehead and Paintsville. J. L. Harman of Bowling Green, was frank to say that he will not vote for a location outside of the Sandy Valley, believing that the situation is about as it is.

The school is needed there and convinced that the establishment of the school at Morehead would leave Eastern Kentucky still needing a Normal school as much as ever. His opinion was shared by Judge Arthur Peters and Alex G. Barrett of Louisville, and Representative W. S. Wallen of Prestonsburg, who voted unwaveringly for the Sandy valley.

The other four members, Chairman E. C. O'Rear of Frankfort, Sherman Goodmeter, treasurer of the Kentucky Jockey Club, former Senator Thomas A. Combs of Lexington, and County Judge E. W. Seiff of Mt. Sterling, have stood by Morehead. Some of the members left here Saturday impressed with the futility of further efforts to get together. The situation is pregnant with possibilities, including resignations and the continuation of the deadlock until the 1924 General Assembly convenes.

The deadlock in itself will not affect the fortunes of the school at Murray, if the problem of organization and building is solved. The law provides that "if gifts and donations are made, sufficient to establish one of said schools, then the sum of $50,000 shall be available for the maintenance and operation of said school."

Promoters of the Murray school are working to commit the State to that project, regardless of what is done about the other school. Chairman Ainey T. Wells of the State Tax Commission, is taking the lead in this and appeared before the commission Saturday with a delegation from his town, who, after closing negotiations about the bonus and site, received the assurance of the commission that the organization of the school would be taken up at the next meeting.

That will bring about a show down between the commission and the State Board of Education. The law, which originally provided for the State Board of Education to attend to the matter of selecting sites, was amended to provide for the commission, a majority of whom were to be selected by the Speaker of the House, and it retained the word "establish" in the commission's duties, while it said "the management and control, when established, shall be vested in the State Board of Education."

The commission is understood to be willing to name Dr. J. W. Carr, High School supervisor under the General Education Board, as president of the institution. Dr. Carr declined today to say whether he would accept.

The presidency has never been offered me," he replied when asked. "I don't mind saying that I never have been an applicant. I am not an applicant now."

State Board Refuses to Meet.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 21.—The State Board of Education will not confer with the Normal School Commission in Lexington Saturday in regard to the election of a president for the Murray School.

The board stands pat on its own prerogative to choose the president and faculty and adopt a course of study, and proposes that if the commission is in doubt about which body is designated to perform this duty, it ratify the action of the board.

George Colvin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, made this reply in a letter sent today to Alex G. Barrett of Louisville, member of the committee delegated to invite the board to the conference. The letter was prepared by Mr. Colvin and Charles I. Dawson, Attorney General, both of whom are members of the board. Superintendent Colvin said he had consulted Fred A. Vaughan, Secretary of State, the other member of the board, and the decision is unanimous.

The letter to Commissioner Barrett follows:

Desires To Co-operate.

"I have advised the State Board of Education that you have been authorized by the Normal School Commission to invite the members of the State Board of Education to meet with the members of the Normal School Commission in Lexington, Saturday, November 25, for the purpose of selecting a president for the new normal school to be located at Murray and to consider the advisability of opening the school in January, 1923."

"In this connection, I wish to repeat what I stated to your commission at its session in Frankfort last Saturday, that the State Board of Education stands ready at all times to co-operate with your commission in all legal ways to the end that a Normal School adequate to meet the needs of the people of Western Kentucky shall be established as contemplated in the law, providing for the establishment of a Normal School in Western Kentucky at the earliest possible date."

"As the State Board of Education views the matter, and as we are advised, the law providing for the establishment of two new Normal Schools places certain distinct duties upon your commission to select the sites for the new Normal Schools and to receive gifts of land, buildings or money for the establishment of these two Normal Schools and to erect such buildings as in the judgment of your commission are necessary for the proper conduct of these schools. This duty and election on the part of your commission has always been recognized to the fullest extent by the State Board of Education. The law places the management and control of these Normal Schools, when established in the manner above indicated, in the hands of the State Board of Education."

Meeting Would Be Futile.

"We are advised that the management and control of the two Normal Schools by the State Board of Education necessarily implies the duty and the right of the State Board of Education to select the faculty and prescribe the course of study for the schools. This is a duty and a right that was not sought by the State Board of Education, but the law having placed it upon us, we have no disposition to shirk it."

"In view of the conclusion, it appears to us that no good purpose can be served by a joint meeting of your commission and the State Board of Education for the purpose of selecting the president of the Western Kentucky Normal School. I am, therefore, directed by the State Board of Education to advise your commission that whenever your commission officially notifies the State Board of Education that Murray has been chosen as the site for the Normal School and that a suitable building, in which to conduct the school, has been secured, the State Board of Education will at once proceed to the election of a president and faculty and adopt a course of study."

Johnson County Sheriff Shoots a Moonshiner

Sheriff Grant Daniels, of Johnson county, is reported to have shot a man named Meek, of Henrietta, at the railroad station near there yesterday. The sheriff and deputies were there to capture a bunch of alleged moonshiners and when they got off of the train the trouble began. Meek resisted, it is said, and drew a gun. The sheriff lost no time in landing him with a shot. It is thought he will recover.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 18.—Eighteen ballots taken by the State Normal School Commission this afternoon resulted in a deadlock between Morehead and Paintsville, and the commission adjourned to meet again next Saturday morning at Lexington, when, in addition to voting on the site for the Eastern school, a conference will be held with the State Board of Education in regard to opening the Western School at Murray.

The commission today accepted Murray's bonus of $100,000 and selected the site on the thirty-acre tract just outside the town, owned by Rainey T. Wells, chairman of the State Tax Commission, and Dr. E. B. Houston. The selection was unanimous.

Chairman Wells and a delegation from Murray appeared before the commission. They were assured that the commission is in favor of opening the school January 1 if possible. The question whether the commission of the State Board of Education is empowered to elect the president and faculty was discussed, and it was decided to confer with the board, which is composed of State Superintendent George Colvin, Secretary of State Fred A. Vaughan and Attorney General Charles L. Dawson.

Dr. J. W. Carr, at present supervisor of high-schools in the Department of Education, an office maintained by the General Education Board, a Rockefeller Foundation, is talked of for president of the school. He is a Columbia graduate and formerly was superintendent of schools at Dayton, O.

After disposing of the business in connection with the Murray site, the Commission heard a delegation from Paintsville, who offers twenty acres and $100,000 and then proceeded to ballot on the Eastern school site.

The votes were scattered on a few ballots and then settled down to Paintsville and Morehead.

On the concluding ballot it stood just as it had at the last meeting: Chairman E. C. O'Rear, Thomas A. Combs, Sherman Goodmeter and D. W. Seiff for Morehead, and J. L. Harman, Judge Arthur Peters, Alex G. Barrett and W. S. Wallen for Paintsville.

Mr. Wallen resigned as secretary because his home is at Prestonsburg, he thought, too far away from the chairman, and Judge Seiff was elected secretary and treasurer.—Courier-Journal.

MAN KILLED IN OIL FIELD

Edward Russell of Tennessee who has been working in the oil field in this section for the past year was killed last Friday night at a well being drilled for J. K. Wells. He was assisting in the drilling and when the bailer was pulled out it fell on him, killing him instantly.

His remains were brought to Paintsville and prepared for shipment to his home in Tennessee. Mr. Spilars, who has charge of the work for Mr. Wells sent a man with the remains to his old home.—Paintsville Herald.

Funeral of O. W. Endicott Held From Residence

The body of Oscar W. Endicott arrived in Louisa last Sunday evening from Albuquerque, New Mexico, and was taken to the home of his mother, Mrs. Emma Endicott. Funeral services were conducted at the residence on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. J. D. Brame, pastor of the Baptist church of this place, the Rev. Midett, of Prestonsburg also taking part in the service. Members from the different choirs of the town furnished the music. A large number of relatives and friends was present. The floral tribute was beautiful, several pieces being sent from Prestonsburg.

$10,000 Verdict Given For Injuries in Crash

The jury in the case of Max Callihan vs. George Hunt, in the circuit court at Catlettsburg, brought in a verdict for the plaintiff for $10,000. The case is an old one and is the outcome of injuries sustained by Callihan five years ago in a collision on Lexington avenue, Ashland, with an automobile driven by Hunt. Callihan at the time, was riding a motorcycle. Callihan claimed the loss of his right eye and other injuries.

The case had been tried once before several years ago and resulted in a disagreement of the jury.

to establish a sales and service agency in this community

NO industry in America offers a more attractive opportunity to quickly establish a permanent and profitable retail business than the automobile industry.

FEW, if any, automobile franchises offer a more splendid future to an aggressive business man than the liberal franchise of Willys-Overland, Inc.

75% of all automobiles sold today are of but three different makes! Overland is one of them. 90% of all automobiles sold today are of eight different makes! The Willys-Knight is another of them.

WILLYS-OVERLAND, Inc., is the only manufacturer which, in the Overland and Willys-Knight, produces two out of the eight most popular cars in the world.

WE invite comparison with other cars in the same price classes as to materials, construction, riding qualities and economy of operation.

INVESTIGATE the used car market and you will discover that used Overlands of present design move at good prices and Willys-Knight cars are rare among used car stocks.

UNLESS you are familiar with the splendid performance records of the present-day Overland and Willys-Knight, you cannot fully appreciate the reason for the public preference for these two cars.

AND at their new prices, they offer sales possibilities greater than ever before in their history.

IF you have or can command the facilities to establish a high-grade repair shop and local sales organization write

A MERCILESS JUDGE

ONE WHO SHOWS NO FAVOR.

A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and the strong go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Louisa resident, has withstood the sternest of all tests. "I suffered with many kidney symptoms. I could scarcely stand the heaviest pain and lameness in my back and I was weak and tired and I had nervous headaches and dizzy spells often annoyed me. I was troubled with the irregular condition of my kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice and I got some of the Louisiana Drug Store Co. and began their use. They entirely rid me of the suffering." (Statement given January 27, 1922.) On December 3, 1920, Mrs. Pigg said: "Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of severe kidney trouble. I am pleased to give them another endorsement, as my cure has lasted." 6c at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Rescues Other Members;
Dies of Burns Received

Lewisburg, W. Va., Nov. 20.—Harry Boves, hero of the fire which Sunday destroyed the home of his family at his home, six miles from here, was buried today at the conclusion of the second funeral in the family within as many days. He died yesterday, just as the hour of his brother, Herbert's funeral, from burns received while trying to rescue other members of the family. The fire was caused when the father, Herbert Boves, Sr., poured oil in the stove he had just kindled, causing it to explode. Harry Boves saved five of his younger brothers by dropping them one by one from an upper story window after their escape was arrested on information from the Sheriff of Pike county, Ky. He broke jail in Pikeville some months ago and had eluded the officers. He was sent to jail for having been caught with ten gallons of liquor in his possession, the court of Pike county having fined him $100 and given him 30 days in jail. Hackett didn't like the Pike county jail and made his escape the night of the day he was locked in. How well he will like the Mingo county jail remains to be seen. Williamson News.

More Strength—Less Strain

Sedan $1465—Touring $995 F. O. B. Factory
Tax Extra

When you have checked up the interior of the Jewett Sedan, feature for feature, you will find that it offers every comfort and convenience of the truly fine enclosed car.

Then, remember, that there is an additional satisfaction enjoyed by every Jewett owner. It is absolute confidence in a mechanical foundation that, not only assures brilliant road performance, but long life and minimum repair bills.

The Jewett is not a "light" car—the touring model has 2800 pounds of finely tested metal and excess strength. Every single part has been designed to stand up under brutal punishment—and laugh at it.

Because the six-cylinder motor delivers its power in six overlapping power impulses instead of four distinct, separate jerks, far less strain is put upon the extra strong axle and chassis mechanism. There is no vibration and no undue stress or strain upon any of the working parts.

That is why there can be no axle trouble with the Jewett—no differential troubles—no "constitutional weaknesses". The Jewett is, not only powerful, but strong.

The complete Paige-Jewett line of six-cylinder passenger cars offers a selection of thirteen models priced from $995 to $3350. The complete line of Paige trucks meets every haulage need. They are sold and serviced by Paige Dealers everywhere.

Congress assembled in called session last Monday and heard a message from the President urging passage of the ship subsidy measure. This is a proposition to turn out of the public treasury a subsidy to ship owners sufficient to make the business profitable in competition with foreign ships.

We are publishing this week in full the Courier-Journal report of all that has transpired in connection with the meeting of the State-Normal School Sift Commission at Frankfort last Saturday. Another meeting will be held at Lexington Saturday of this week. We have no further comment to make at this time. The case is before them. Louisiana is the logical solution of the matter, and it seems to us that the Commission should be able to see this fact.

Georgia has the distinction of having sent the first woman to the United States Senate. Also, she served the shortest term ever filled by any Senator—one day. Her appointment was to fill a vacancy and her successor was elected before the Senate convened again, but the gentleman chosen to succeed her did not qualify until Mrs. Felton had been permitted to serve a short time. She was accorded much attention and respect. Mrs. Felton is 87 years old and is known as "the grand old woman of Georgia."

The Big Sandy News has been enlarged to a seven-column quarto and its owners have installed a modern Webb perfecting press. We are glad to know that it is in such a prosperous condition, as it is one of our most interesting exchanges.—Cereido Advance.

The Cereido Advance and the Big Sandy News came nearer being twins than any other pair of newspapers in this part of the country. Both were born the same year, 27 years ago. Mr. T. T. McDougal established the Advance and is still on the job. The senior editor of the NEWS has been at the helm only a few weeks longer than Mr. McDougal. Having traveled side by side, in the same way, for all these years there is a bond of fellowship, of sympathy or something between us.

Senator Newberry, who spent $750,000 to win over Henry Ford a seat in the United States Senate, has resigned since the election. The people of Michigan feel his colleague, Senator Townsend, electing a Democrat for the first time in 70 years. Newberry was the issue in that race as well as in others throughout the country. When Newberry was indicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years for violation of the law limiting expenditures in elections, the question of expelling him from the Senate was fought out in that body. He retained his seat by a plurality of only five votes. The last election made more than enough for the Senate to expel Newberry and the case was to be re-opened. So Mr. Newberry made haste to settle the matter himself by resigning. When rich men become thoroughly convinced that the more they pay for an office the less it is worth, they may decide to keep their money out.

We take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation to all our friends, members of Order of Eastern Star, and all others who stood by us during the illness, death and burial of our darling child, George Arthur. We deeply appreciate the beautiful floral tributes and the many other expressions of sympathy and kindness whether shown in word, deed or thought and shall ever hold each of you in grateful remembrance.

HOMIE PHILOSOPHY for 1922

ONCE upon a time there was a man named Russell Sage. He died many times a millionaire. He never spent a penny he was not compelled to spend. He bought his summer underwear in the winter time and his winter clothing in July. He paid fifty cents for straw hats, when merchants were throwing away their left overs in September. Thus he amassed a huge fortune, which two of his nephews are now spending. They are in season with the money Sage left and enjoy the buying with the human touch Sage could not leave. He never knew it. Buying in seasons spells universal prosperity and human happiness. But buy early. The rush stimulates prices! Everything needed for Christmas is now in stock, and the early bird catches the worm. The worm may be foolish to get up, but he's up in every store. So shop now.

Mr. J. W. M. Stewart Interviewed in New York on Subject of Women in Politics

The following interesting interview with Hon. J. W. M. Stewart of Ashland appeared in the Cincinnati Enquirer of Monday:
New York, November 19.—J. W. M. Stewart, Ashland, attorney, and a keen man of affairs in Kentucky, who was in New York last week on important business and to attend a meeting of the Consolidation Coal Company, of which he is the legal head and a director, had this to say in regard to the entrance of women into political life, not only in the United States, but in European countries:
"Women have had a wholesome effect upon Government everywhere. Politics, as everything else, needs new viewpoints constantly. The situation is much the same as with business, which, as the saying goes, is improved with the infusion of new blood."
"If the same conditions are permitted to go on without any occasional change, there is the possibility of lapsing into a rut from which it is a difficult thing to escape. Progress is almost synonymous with change when that change is in the line of positive improvement and the introduction of factors that are worth while."

"The changing viewpoint is supplied, I believe, in the introduction of women into politics. For years they may not exert any great effect upon political institutions, as such. I do not believe they should aim at radical modification of anything that is contributing to public good. But during all that time, when they are getting their bearings, so to speak, and learning the political game, they have it in their power to exert an influence for good upon the male voters."
"There is no doubt that the feminine viewpoint is going to be different from that of men in regard to politics. As a different viewpoint alone it would be of little good, but blended with that of the men who have had years of political experience, and who perhaps need a freshening of their ideas, there is the possibility of a real improvement of existing political institutions."
"In England, from reports of their elections, the women are taking an active part. They apparently are adding a power for good, too. Other nations which have not adopted universal suffrage, if they study the experience of English speaking peoples, will put it into practice if they look to progress."

Cost of Living is Again on Increase

Washington, Nov. 20.—An indicated increase of 2 per cent in the retail cost of food to the average family in the United States during the month ending October 15 was reported today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Agriculture, based on the prices of forty-three articles in fifty-one cities. By cities, San Francisco led with an increase of 6 per cent, while Boston, Los Angeles and Philadelphia showed 4 per cent, and Buffalo, Cleveland and New York were included in those reporting 3 per cent. No city reported a decrease, but the increase in a number, including Chicago, Indianapolis and Milwaukee, was less than one-half of 1 per cent.

Of the food articles fourteen showed an increase which was indicated to be largely seasonal, as much as 21 per cent for fresh eggs and 10 per cent for butter, while nineteen showed a decrease and the prices of ten remained unchanged.

REV. BELL'S CONGRATULATIONS.

Summersville, W. Va., Nov. 20, 1922. Big Sandy News, Louisville, Ky.
Congratulations and congratulations on your progressiveness in the installation of a Webb perfecting press. You deserve and merit the unstinted support and co-operation of all the people, and especially the merchants, in your forward move to give the best paper and advertising medium in the Big Sandy. Go to it, I'm with you. Now, put at your Mast Head, "Watch Louisa Grow." With a big State Normal in sight, a government building, a high school building, free mail delivery, an electric light plant and a printing plant like you are preparing for; you just can't keep her down. I glory in your progress and forward movement. Next thing you will be getting out a daily. Alright, then I'll come over and get a job delivering papers.
BELL.

BETTER RESULTS EXPECTED.

We hope to present to our readers this week a better printed paper than they received last week. Ink rollers shipped November 2 failed to arrive in time for last week and we were forced to print with old rollers and with two less than the full number required. The new ones have arrived, and with a little time for adjustments of the new press we hope to be turning out a high class product.

Richard Lloyd Jones tells About the Economic Grab Game

COMPARE the finest Oregon apple with a wild crab and you have a simple parallel of the unfolding refinements of political and economic institutions.

We found the apple wild and we tamed it. We took the seed of the best fruit and planted again. By replanting only the best, protecting the trees from the insect foes, giving battle to the wrecking worm, we have through a generation of trees produced marvelous fruit.

This is not an illogical picture to present in the consideration of railroads. A lot of people think that we are going to the dogs. Ex-Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota, one of our brightest but most pessimistic public men, has recently written a book to tell us how topsy-turvy everything is and that we are headed for the bow-wows.

We are not going to the bow-wows. The good Senator is wrong. He points to the danger of combinations in business. The very danger that he fears is bringing into life the perfected fruit of government control with ultimate government ownership of the common carriers of the country. When we reach that good goal we are going to create out of those common carriers a revenue which will greatly reduce our tax burden.

It is a pruning process, a program of selection and development of that which brings promise of the better until we get the best.

We used to be afraid of railroad mergers. We used to pass laws to prevent them. We thought it a terrible system for small railroads to get together and organize one large system. Now we think it fine. We're encouraging it. The trouble is, a lot of fellows who were progressives in 1889 haven't yet got the progressive view of 1922.

Four big railroads, the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul are today talking merger. This is not a terrible contemplation. We should hope for its consummation. It is just making one fine, big apple out of four smaller ones. It's improving the fruit on our national economic and industrial tree.

If you want to see a line of old railroad crabs just look at any passing freight train. It's a kaleidoscopic picture of a monumental mix-up, a moving panorama of the inefficiency and waste of a lot of little crab roads.

On that passing freight train you will see cars marked New York Central, Southern Pacific, Houston and Maine, Denver & Rio Grande, Southern, Great Northern, Lackawanna, Illinois Central, Wabash, Florida, East Coast, Soo Line, Texas and Pacific and so on to the caboose.

Every one of those cars has to be distributed back to the four corners of the continent until they get on their own little siding. Pretty little sour crabs, belonging to an ancient transportation tree.

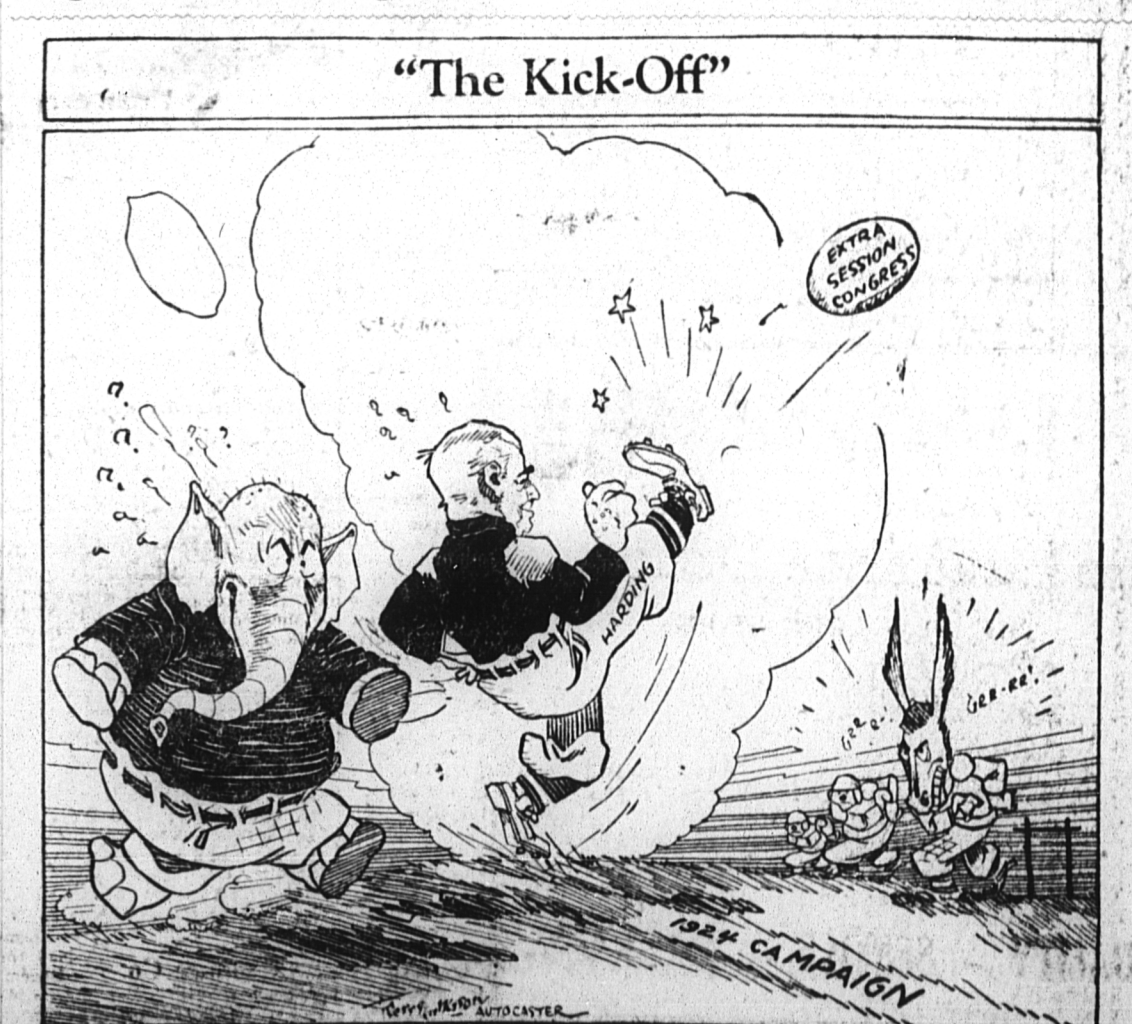

The United States mail pouch is a mail pouch anywhere from Maine to Arizona. Any railroad car should be the same.

The more they merge the better and when we get one big merger of all railroads, the next step will be for the government to take them over, run them, acquire the profit and spend it in running the business of the government, thereby reducing the tax burden upon the taxpayer.

Railroads, like apples, get better as they get bigger. It's a great and grand grafting game just like pruning up the trees for the finer product. We are going ahead, each day nearer to a more perfect product.

Preaches Golden Jubilee Sermon in Cleveland, O.

Bishop Lewis W. Burton of the Lexington diocese was in Cleveland, O., to preach Sunday the golden jubilee sermon in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of All Saints Episcopal church, which was founded by his father, Rev. Lewis Burton, D. D.

The Rev. Mr. Burton, who was for 47 years a clergyman in Cleveland, succeeded his brother, Rev. William N. Burton, as rector of St. Johns parish there in 1847 and during his service there founded two missions. He had charge of the two missions churches of St. Johns until they were out of debt and had been consecrated and one of them, All Saints church, was the first charge of his son, now Bishop Burton, after his graduation from Ministerial school. Bishop Burton was associated with his father in Cleveland for seven years before going to his first independent parish, St. Johns, of Richmond, Va.

It is also a coincidence that Bishop Burton succeeded as rector of St. Andrews church, Louisville, his maternal uncle, Rev. John S. Wallace. He was in charge of the Louisville church when made bishop.

The Town Tattler.

This program will be especially interesting as it will be the last in this semester. This will be the last meeting over which the present officers will preside.

Two ties and seven over-time periods without success to win for either team the class tournament ended last Friday night before a crowded house of enthusiastic basketball fans.

The Sophomore girls tied the Freshmen girls 9 to 9 which they were able to break with three over-time periods. Guarding and team work at its best on both teams. No unguarded shots were permitted during the evening. The players merged themselves so well into machines of five players each that outstanding players can be mentioned.

With the close of the first over-time period Kinstler went in for Carter and Carter for Davis. The Sophomores were also shifted about in hopes of breaking the tie. With an undying desire to win, the girls fought through two more periods exhibiting the finest spirit ever shown on a basketball floor.

The Junior boys tied the Freshmen boys 4 to 4 which stood unbroken after four over-time periods.

The Freshmen opened the scoring by a field goal by Crutcher soon after the opening whistle. Radcliffe followed with another field goal which ended their scoring. The Juniors tightened down, playing a fine defense but were unable to locate the basket. Two foul goals were made by the upper classmen bringing the half to a close 4 to 2 in the yearlings favor.

In the second half B. Carter found the basket for two field goals but only one of them counted. This tied the score, 4 to 4. Both teams lightened down to better team work but were unable to bring the ball within scoring distance during the remainder of the half.

At the opening of the first over-time period Cummings went in for Crutcher. The teams were called back four times, but were unable to break the tie.

Juniors:—Plummer, R. F.; G. Carter, L. F.; B. Carter, C. A. See, R. G.; J. See, L. G.

Freshmen:—Crutcher, R. F.; Radcliffe, L. F.; Hays, C.; Marcum, R. G.; Vanhook, L. G.

Tuesday morning Coach Dorsett made known his selection for the first string of basketball boys. He issued complete uniforms to Burgess Carter, Garland Carter, Neil Plummer, Alvas See, Jack See, Loyd Wray, Chester Compton, Foster Queen, Paul Roberts and John D. Marcum.

Tuesday evening at 6:00 o'clock equipment was given to Jessie Carter, Edith Adams, Edith Cheap, Elizabeth Wilson, Edith Norton, Ella Marie Kinstler, Anna Mary Miller, Gladys Hawes, Eulah Kirk, Opal Walters.

Several candidates on both the boys and girls squad are crowding the first string candidates for their equipment. It will take constant training for some of the first team to retain their station.

It is planned for the basketball teams to have their pictures taken the latter part of next week.

Some new seats will be placed in the hall for the next basketball game. Kentucky boys come here Friday to play the High School boys.

December 1 Catlettsburg High School girls play the Louisa High School girls here.

Delilah Combs' Suit Against Crain Dropped

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 20.—One of three damage suits for $100,000 each against M. S. Crain and fourteen other defendants, filed in Fayette Circuit Court several months ago by widows of three men killed in the Clayhole election battle in November, 1921, was dismissed without prejudice to future action by Circuit Judge R. C. Stoll today on motion of Attorney Ryland C. Musick of Jackson, counsel for the plaintiffs.

The case dismissed was that of Mrs. Delilah Combs against M. S. Crain, Ed Chester, Willie and Arnie Davis; Will, Marion, Ambly and Alfred Barnett; Will Campbell, Ed Combs, Greer T. Strong, Clarence Fugate, James Kilburn and Tom Miller, who were alleged in plaintiff's petition to have caused the death of her husband in the election fight.

The same defendants with Mrs. Lizzie Alrie and Mrs. Pauline Combs as plaintiffs have been set for hearing here December 4.

Ryland C. Musick explained that he had asked for dismissal of the Delilah Combs case at Lexington because the same suit had been filed in the Clark county circuit court at Winchester.

Cattle Feeder Saved $135 In Few Minutes

One example of the hundreds of good things coming to Kentucky beef cattle feeders through their co-operation with the extension division of the College of Agriculture was found in the recent visit of County Agent C. L. Hill and Wayland Rhoads, beef cattle specialist of the college, to cattle feeders in the eastern part of the state. It was estimated that only one feeder was saved more than $125 in one year by means of a change in feeding methods recommended by County Agent Hill and Mr. Rhoads. Feeding tests were explained to the farmer to show him how he could save money by feeding of concentrated material, but the majority refused to feed.

Miss Marie Wilson
Marries in Ashland

The following account of the marriage of Miss Wilson was in Sunday's Ashland paper and is of interest to relatives and friends here:

A quiet wedding of unusual interest was that of Miss Marie Wilson and Roy C. Petty of Ashland, which took place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. D. W. Scott, pastor of the First Christian church. The announcement of the marriage will come as a great surprise to their many friends as it has been kept a secret until now.

Miss Marie Wilson, an intimate friend of the bride and Mrs. W. J. Carroll were the only attendants at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Petty are receiving congratulations at the home of Mrs. Petty's mother, Mrs. H. Estep in Oakview, where they will make their home for the present.

Mrs. Petty has been an employee of the Ashland Day & Night Bank for some time and Mr. Petty is employed by the Ohio Valley Electric Railway Company.

Young Matron First

Mrs. Alma Sheppard of South Ashland was the first hunting victim of the season in Ashland. Six shots lodged in her arm and abdomen, but all were removed without danger. The wounds were not serious. Independent.

Thanksgiving Dinner Menu.
How the words "Thanksgiving Day" call to mind happy days when families gathered together, and from old memories when perchance those days are no more.

To set apart a day at the end of harvest when the crops were in as a day of thanksgiving to God for his mercies has been a custom in all countries for centuries. It was spoken of as the Harvest Feast or Festival.

When the early colonial settlers wished to make a feast of thanksgiving to God for their new country and home, they chose a day in November which should be devoted to prayer and thanksgiving and called it "Thanksgiving Day." Families gathered at grandmother's house, the best of the land's offerings were twice served at the table, and the dinner grew in proportion and tables "groined" with the goodies.

Always Turkey.

The meat chosen for this dinner was that from the turkey, a bird which first was wild, coming from Mexico, and later domesticated.

The vegetables were those grown during the summer and were ready for winter use—the squash, pumpkin, onion, turnips and potatoes.

The pumpkin has always been used for pies and when a pie is made from a good pumpkin, combined with eggs, milk and sugar, no better pie can be made.

The "Laid" Pudding.

In some parts of New England a "laid" pudding was always served at the Thanksgiving dinner. It was a pudding made with layers of crackers and raisins covered with milk and thickened with eggs. Some places use the custard as a foundation for a steamed fruit pudding.

Cranberry sauce or jelly adds color and flavor to the dinner.

Oyster Soup.

Along the Atlantic coast the oyster grew in great quantities, and so an oyster soup, or oysters creamed, or scalloped must always appear on the Thanksgiving menu.

For table decoration a pumpkin hollowed out makes an attractive fruit dish. Fruit and autumn leaves with chrysanthemums for those who can have them make a table quite in keeping with the season.

Suits of all kinds for after dinner and good sweet cider to drink with bright red apples to eat made the day one to be remembered until the next year should bring another one.

Frequent and constant advertising brought me all I own.—A. T. Stewart.

Heiress True to Boy
Sweetheart

And after everything was said and done it happened just as it always does in the story book, and Delora is going to marry Lester.

While Delora was in school at St. Charles, she had a sweetheart, Lester Norris, a young man of the same age as she, who was a very handsome young man.

But Lester knew the girl behind the gold and Delora knew and when she let him see her, he was certain she was right in the first place and there never could be anybody but Lester whose father is the village undertaker. Now Delora is 20 and her engagement to Lester is announced. Photo shows Miss Delora and her fiancé, Lester Norris, 21, budding artist.

Mrs. Felton Sworn in White Crowd Applauds

Washington, Nov. 23. (AP.) Mrs. W. H. Felton, the second woman to be sworn in as a member of the White House Society, was sworn in today for a day as the first woman Senator.

Without objection from any Senator, but after a long delay during which the status of her appointment to the Senate was reviewed in the light of the presidential election, Mrs. Felton took the oath of office at the White House today and was sworn in as the first woman Senator.

A large crowd applauded as the 55-year-old woman took her oath and was sworn in. The ceremony was held in the Senate chamber, and Mrs. Felton was sworn in by the President.

The signing of Mrs. Felton was delayed until an hour and a half after the Senate convened for an adjournment in support of her claim by Senator Walsh.

When the ceremony was over, Mrs. Felton was escorted to the White House by a motorcade. She was the first woman Senator to be sworn in.

Mrs. Felton, upon her arrival at the White House, was greeted by the President and the First Lady. She will be the first woman Senator to take the oath of office.

The
Other Woman

By MYRA C. LANE

(C. 1922, Western Newspaper Union)

So this was the end!

Molly Protheroe stood looking in dumb anguish at the proofs of Jim's faithlessness. There they were, set down in black and white, the other woman's letters, proof enough for a divorce in any court of any land.

And a dull resentment, not unkindled with curiosity, burned in her. Why had Jim done this? Why had he proved unfaithful?

She went over in her mind the seven years of her married life with him. She had been so dutiful, so unassuming, washing for him, cooking, scrubbing, washing, and never taking her troubles to him when he came home at night.

She had not lost her beauty, if it had grown more mature. And there was no reason—that was it—no reason at all!

She remembered the cynical information given her by other disillusioned married women. Ah, men, they said, were unfaithful. But Molly had never expected it of Jim.

She had already decided that there should be no divorce, on account of his. He was fond of the child, and she would bear his burden. But why? Why? The question rose to her lips insistently.

She knew who the other woman was—Miss Clinton, manager of an office force in a big corporation, a business woman by day, a playmate at night. She was well known; she had had other affairs with other men.

Jim should never know of her discovery. Molly put back the packet of letters where she had found them. She would not let Jim know. But she meant to see this Clinton woman and quite frankly, ask where she herself had failed.

One those letters reflected Jim's, and breathed a passion that Jim had never felt for her.

On the following evening, alleging an engagement, Molly made her way to Miss Clinton's apartment.

She knew that Jim had a business appointment that night—a real one! She had ascertained that beyond doubt.

The apartment in which Miss Clinton lived was of the press-abolition, and walk-up kind. So Jim was not keeping her in luxury! Summoning all her courage, Molly went up to the top flat when the door opened.

Miss Clinton was pretty, there was no denying that, and Molly felt oddly touched to see that she was quite passable herself.

"The Mrs. Protheroe," said Molly. Hostility flared into Miss Clinton's eyes. "Come to make a scene, I suppose," she said.

"No, just to take a look at you," said Molly.

Miss Clinton opened the door reluctantly. "Look all you want to, then," she answered.

"I haven't come here to quarrel with you, Miss Clinton," Molly said. "I just wanted to find out—well, you see, I know everything, and I wanted to find out what Jim sees in you that he doesn't see in me."

The other laughed uncomfortably. "Oh, Jim and I met and found we were meant for each other. I guess that covers everything."

"The thought that about me, perhaps," Molly said.

"Will it wear off with you?" Molly asked.

"I don't know, nor care," answered Miss Clinton. "That's the beauty of it. That's what keeps us together. You feel, don't you, that?"

"I've never been exacting," said Molly humbly. "I've worked for him—when we were poor I shaved for him."

The other softened. "My dear, I've never shaved for a man in my life, and never will," she said. "I guess the truth is you're the typical wife, and I'm the typical—well, you know."

"Are all men untrue to their wives—when they've thought about them all the time?"

"Mostly, I guess. You see, a man doesn't want a servant when he marries. He'd much rather come home to have, with a dirty leech, or sit down to hash and kisses than a housewife's meal. I guess you haven't learned that, Mrs. Protheroe."

"No, I've been a fool," said Molly.

"Ah, well, that's the secret," Miss Clinton answered. "You can't hold love by housework."

"I guess you're the type of woman the men go to," admitted Molly. "But—maybe I've got a secret, too."

"What is it?"

"They always come back—when their wives are big enough and brave enough and loving enough. And I'm the type they come back to. They do get tired of hash and dirty leeches—and Broadway dinners, too."

"Maybe," answered Miss Clinton. And Molly went down the stairs, pondering the old, unanswered question:

"Which would I really rather be?"

Notre Dame in Danger.

Apprehension is felt regarding the decay, which has just been discovered, in the delicate sculptures on the front of Notre Dame cathedral which are found to be crumbling after the strain of centuries of exposure.

Various chemical processes tried recently failed in the purpose of consolidating the ancient stones, and only succeeded in spoiling the beautiful old surface of the gargoyles and other face-like decorations.—Paris Cable in the New York American.

Louisa Rebekah's Enjoy Meeting at Buchanan

In response to an invitation extended to Rebekah Lodge No. 95 by Buchanan Lodge to come down and put on the work for them on the 18th Mrs. H. H. Sparks, Mrs. Nora Wellman, Mrs. L. C. Atkins, Mrs. Virginia Haze Thompson, Misses May and Marie Hale, Mrs. Proctor Sparks, Mrs. Polly Picklesimer, Mrs. Dr. Wray and Mrs. Josephine Rice, Mrs. Monroe Sammons and Mr. Harry Roberts went. We met at the train Saturday morning, although the weather started with a downpour of rain. Everybody was out for a splendid time and we had it.

Mrs. Dr. Pritchard met us at the station at Buchanan and gave us a hearty welcome and escorted us to the hall. There we found several of the ladies Rebekah's who had prepared a feast of good things to eat, and such a feast it was our happy privilege to enjoy.

After everybody had eaten till they could not eat any more the room was cleared and the work commenced. The colors of the order in profusion and the ladies arrayed in their white robes made a pretty picture long to be remembered. The address of welcome given by Mrs. Laura Pritchard was a happy and delightful feature and the response on behalf of Lodge No. 95 was delivered by Mrs. Josephine Rice who touched on different points of the work. After a most enjoyable day and regrets at leaving expressed we returned home with the desire that some day we can go back again. VISITOR.

HOME CIRCLE AT EVEN-

Have you noticed how large a number of persons with whom you stop to have a little chat, speak of the dark blotches of human nature in the lives of someone? We will not except the person of the highest moral standing in the community. Nine out of every ten persons in a ten minutes talk will bring up the defects in some one's life and out of a hundred may possibly mention you by speaking of the good that may be found in most of our individuals. There is no life without its defects, neither without its excellencies and what a different coloring it would give to humanity if the rule was reversed to what it is. And, reader, it rests with you and us to start the reform, and with such a good start as we make, the life we live, we are sure it will be contagious if we persevere. For when neighbors speak naught of all and only had the good that is in us we will not be far from that glorious period dominated the millennium.

In many ways Thanksgiving is one of our most delightful events. It comes at a time when the rigors of winter are not yet at hand. We have at our disposal all the varied products of the soil and the time for a season of partial rest for the farmer is at hand. One of its most delightful features, which has become quite general, is the gathering together under the old tree of all scattered sons and daughters on this day. Two, three, and sometimes four generations thus meet around the festive and hospitable table of the old home, and thus fraternal ties are strengthened and filial piety encouraged.

We have made of Thanksgiving a day of gentleness and untrammelled, a day of the accompaniments of which are merriment and joy. The reason of family and of friends the feasting and the laughter, even the legend of the emerald American bird, all combine to make of the day something genuine and religiously beautiful. There is the strain of the Thanksgiving. Never was a greater national holiday, never one more perfect in its spirit. It is in itself one of the things to be thankful for to the power which has so blessed so vast a land.

When young people go into an engagement for life as carelessly as they do to a picnic, they must expect to pay for their folly with their bitter experience. With thousands, a marriage engagement is a matter of boyish or girlish caprice. If wise marriages are made in heaven, then the hasty, loose, selfish sort are the hand work of the devil.

What is needed most of all in bringing up children is example. What they see and hear and take in by absorption in their young years, will, in most cases, become the ruling traits of their lives.

Let the path of life start whence it may, and let the way be steep and thorny if it must, there are sunny fields far up the heights for those who have faith and resolution to climb them.

In a world where God lets the sun shine, the birds sing and the flowers make happy love to each other, man should not be the only saddened object.

The strength of a nation is in the intelligent and well-ordered homes of the people.

No one is useless in this world who lightens the burden of it for another.

When a man sits down to wait for his ship to come in, it usually turns out to be a never-ship.

Poem
by UNCLE JOHN

If I was a woman—as sweet as a rose—attracting admirers wherever she goes,—I'd exercise judgment and never would fret to marry the first man I thought I could get. . . . It's powerful risky to marry too fast, an' fetch up in heart-breakin' tatters at last!

If I was a woman—I'd shorley object to masculine drivell that's short of respect. I'd gather a brick-bat, and throw it to hurt—at the two-legged varmint that called me a "skirt," and I'd knock the face off'n the perverted swain, that chucked all politeness, to call me a "Jane."

If I was a woman that pined for a mate, I wouldn't step sideways to monkey with "fate," . . . I wouldn't trust nothin' that couldn't be proved—till I fished up a jay that was fit to be loved.—An' I'd practice all virtues, an' live in restraint—if I was a woman,—but, golly, I ain't!

For your Uncle John.

Selling Out to Quit

We have decided to leave Louisa and will sell out our entire stock at once. Prices very low. We regret to leave Louisa, but on account of our families we are forced to go to Detroit, where a large number of the natives of our former country live. We have made a nice start here and our business is showing a steady increase. We would not leave Louisa except for the fact that our wives are so discontented. They just came over from the old country to America recently and do not speak English.

We have a fine, new stock of LADIES SUITS, CHILDREN'S CLOTHING, READY-TO-WEAR GOODS, NOTIONS, DRY GOODS, ETC.
